New Type Of Seaplane "Hardly Needs A Pilot"

WASHINGTON, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—A new type of seaplane which is almost capable of flying without a pilot, has been delivered to the navy department. The plane designed for the training of student aviators combines safety features never before equaled in aircraft, navy officers said, with qualities of speed and maneuverability. It was delivered at the naval air station at Annapolis after a successful seven hundred mile flight from the factory at Ogdensburg, N. Y.

"In testing the plane for stability, the pilot released the controls, taking his hands and feet off of them," said Commander T. G. Elyson, of the Bureau of Aeronautics who brought the craft to Washington. "The throttle was cut to low speed and the plane went into a long glide. He then speeded up the engine, and still without the controls being touched, the plane leveled off and continued in normal flight, making about sixty knots."

The plane was made to navy specifications by the Huff Company of Ogdensburg and will be known as the Huff-Navy H N-1. It is equipped with a Hispano Suiza engine, of the type which recently passed a record-breaking test of 250 hours continuous running on a navy test here.

Ohio Coal Operators Refuse To Discuss Fair Price Limit; Davis Seeks Another Meeting

COLUMBUS, O., August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—A possibility of an effort to make a fair price limit for coal by Governor Davis to obtain another meeting between coal producing operators and the Ohio Fuel Commission to determine upon a fair price limit for coal within the state, was seen here today, following yesterday's fruitless conference between the operators and the state, when the operators refused to discuss the question of fixing a fair price, out of respect for the Valentine Anti-Trust Law.

This presumption was based upon the statement of the governor given out at the close of yesterday's conference when he said, "a fair price at the Ohio mines will be obtained either through another effort to get all the operators to join with the state in a conference or in some other manner."

The establishment of $3.50 per ton as the minimum fair price at the mine for Ohio coal, as suggested at yesterday's meeting, would have to be lowered to a graduated scale, it was said, as more mines opened up with production speeded up, and rail facilities offering better shipping conditions. One large operator recommended a fair price of $5.50 at the mine for September; $5 for October; $4.50 for November and $4.00 for March.

Want Mufflers Put On Roosters

NEWARK, N. J., August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—The residents of the Ridgewood section have placed a problem before the police by asking that mufflers be placed on the crowing of roosters and cooing of pigeons until 7 a. m., as dwellers in Ridgewood declare that their sleep is now broken at 4:45 every morning by the lusty clucking of neighborhood chattering. Just who is to turn the mufflers on and off, the police have not yet decided.

Cosgrave Acts As Head Of Irish Rule

DUBLIN, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Dublin began to recover somewhat today from the shock caused by the dramatic death of Michael Collins, and plans went forward for the meeting of the new southern parliament on Saturday when the ministerial changes necessitated by the sudden removals of Collins and Arthur Griffith are expected to be made.

Meanwhile, Wm. T. Cosgrave is acting as the head of the provisional Free State government and Richard Mulcahy, as chief of staff, is directing the final phase of the national army's campaign against the irregulars.

The absorbing question of who is to succeed Collins is voiced on all sides, and, besides Cosgrave and Mulcahy, the names of Kevin O'Higgins, minister of economic affairs, General O'Donnell, assistant chief of staff, and General Gerald O'Sullivan were mentioned.

Harding Not To Press Ship Subsidy Bill

WASHINGTON, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—President Harding will not press for immediate consideration by congress, the administration ship subsidy bill, believing that it would be better to postpone action until "we can ravel the attention of congress with a full attendance," rather than "jeopardize its success by consideration under the present circumstances."

The president's position was set forth in a letter yesterday to Representative Mondell, the Republican leader. In addition to the diminished attendance in the house, "new complications" have arisen which "make a difficult situation" the president said, adding that "we must face the fact that friends of the bill must harmonize their views" regarding the "prohibition issue which came up so unexpectedly" and also reach an accord as to the tax exemption sections of the bill.

Buyers In New York Fall Prey To Pretty Blondes

NEW YORK, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—A luxuriously furnished apartment, where out-of-town visitors were molested after being attracted there by two blonde girls, was brought to light early today when the police raided a house on upper west side near Riverside Drive.

Diamond studded dice, listed by the police as worth $100, solid gold put and take tops, and many packs of gold-edged playing cards, were among the objects found by the raiders.

Buyers from other cities had complained to various hotels that desiring to see something of New York night life, they had fallen prey to two charming girls, who were apparently women of wealth as they had their own automobile and chauffeurs.

A watch being set, one girl who gave her name as Miss May Birne, was located and trailed to the apartment. When the police entered a man found there had just given a check for $105 in payment of gambling debts, and another came in just after the police arrived, who had already made a complaint of having been defrauded of $303 in cash and a check. The two girls and man, charged with being a decoy for the apartment, were arrested and held for court action.

Bare Huge Radical Revolt Plot

CHICAGO, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Michigan's state syndicalist law was the first weapon state and federal authorities planned to use in breaking up what they termed one of the greatest radical revolutionary conspiracies of recent years.

State and federal agents continued their search for fifty persons said to have escaped when the secret meeting in the Michigan hills was broken up. Among those for whom the authorities said they were looking, was Rose Pastor Stokes, of New York, wealthy communist leader.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., August 24.—

(By the Associated Press)—The Michigan statute against commercial syndicalism passed by the legislature in 1919, was to be invoked for the first time today with 17 alleged communists near Bridgman, Tuesday, docketed for arraignment in justice court here.

Coincident with the court proceedings, Charles W. Gore, prosecuting attorney for Berrien county, announced extradition would be sought for Wm. Z. Foster, former steel strike leader, arrested in Chicago, late today.

Federal investigators whose operations led to the raid, planned also, it was indicated to file formal charges against more than 70 other persons who they say had gathered at Bridgman.

The identity of the Bridgman conferees, it was said, was disclosed in papers uncovered after the raid. A list of the radical leaders in the United States as well as hundreds of pamphlets advocating the overthrow of this government was included in the literature the officers seized.

Federal authorities said they were convinced that two noted women radicals were in the party which left Bridgman, Monday night, when word of the forthcoming raid was received.

Two representatives of the Russian soviet also were said to have been included in this party.

WASHINGTON, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Committee changes in the house soldiers' bonus bill having been approved the senate turned today to consideration of individual amendments. Disposition of these was not expected to consume a great deal of time and passage of the measure this week was regarded by some leaders as a possibility.

Pending amendments included that by Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico, proposing half cash and half certificates of indebtedness for the veterans. This proposal was rejected yesterday without debate or a roll call but the vote was reconsidered so that Senator Bursum might discuss the amendment today.

No Separate Agreements, Say Strikers

NEW YORK, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—"It's now up to the shopmen," said a spokesman for the big five brotherhood chiefs this afternoon after they had conferred with a committee representing a group of about 20 roads on a proposition for effecting separate settlements between individual roads and striking shopmen.

This was taken in some quarters as indicating that representatives of the running trades, and representatives of roads totalling about 25 per cent of the mileage of the United States had reached some sort of definite proposal for settlement, which had been reported to the shop crafts at a meeting with the mediating brotherhood chiefs which followed the session with executives.

A member of the shopmen's eastern strike committee made this comment to newspaper men:

"I'll tell you that there's going to be no settlement with any 19 railroads. You can put that in your pipe and smoke it."

While an official statement was lacking from the shop craft leaders, this comment was regarded as significant in connection with the statement attributed to the heads of the stationary trades last night that the brotherhood men had not been authorized to suggest any separate settlement plan which would involve abandonment of the policy of the "all for one and one for all" policy.

Nothing official could be learned early this afternoon concerning the latest settlement proposal, if one had been framed. One unofficial report, which could not be confirmed, was that the 19 roads, still refusing to reinstate strikers with full seniority, had agreed to take them all back and let them through merit and efficiency, work themselves back gradually into their old ranking.

Representatives of a score of railroads and the big five brotherhood chiefs conferred at the Yale Club for about three hours today on the possibility of effecting separate agreements between individual lines and their striking shopmen.

"We are still mediating," said Warren S. Stone, spokesman for the brotherhood men, who while meeting adjourned at 1:25 p. m. without announcing whether another session would be held today.

The chief of locomotive engineers declined further to discuss the meeting which was surrounded by the utmost secrecy. He listened to the Hotel Woodstock to confer at labor headquarters with leaders of the stationary crafts.

The railroad executives remained at the Yale Club, but it was understood they would continue their conference with the mediators this afternoon.

Asked if he had any comment to make on the morning session, Daniel Willard, president of the B. and O., and chairman of the group now in conference, answered gruffly:

"No."

The brotherhood mediators spent their lunch period with the leaders of the shop craft unions.

To make the secrecy which surrounded the morning conference, more emphatic, reporters were ordered from the Yale Club.

Negotiations Continue

The big five brotherhoods' chiefs and representatives of a score of railroads today thrashed out the possibility of individual lines settling with their striking shopmen.

This possibility was raised by leaders of the running trades, appearing as mediators, at a conference yesterday with the entire membership of the Association of Railway Executives, which rejected the proposal of the brotherhood men that the rail heads yield on the disputed question of seniority rights.

Separate Pacts May Bring Peace

Encouraged by a belief that individual settlements might yet prove the basis for peace, the big five leaders conferred until after midnight with the heads of a score or more of executives who, expressed a willingness to continue negotiations, although reaffirming their common stand against the union's seniority proposals.

Daniel Willard, spokesman for the group of executives, had previously announced that they would meet the brotherhood chiefs again "early today, but without disclosing where and when the session would take place."

It was announced, however, that any individual settlement would have to be made in the light of the understanding on seniority reached at the general session of the Association of Railway Executives.

Shop Crafts May Oppose Separate Pacts

At the same time certain shop crafts leaders were quoted as asserting that the brotherhoods had not been authorized to suggest any individual settlements.

This proposal, it was reported, was made by L. E. Sheppard, head of the conductors, when the mediators appeared before the entire body of executives. As quoted by one rail executive, he asserted that if any sizeable number of roads showed an inclination to accept the final proposal of the brotherhoods, the shop crafts would drop their "all for one and one for all" policy, which precluded any but a nation wide agreement.

Two Reasons For Others Holding Out

The failure of a majority of the roads to participate in negotiations which the so-called minority continued late last night was ascribed to two reasons:

1. Their refusal to recognize the seniority demands of the strikers as a basis for settlement.

2. Their refusal to consider taking back all of the strikers, a point which President Harding's last proposal contained, and which the strikers have consistently demanded.

WOMEN FIGHT FOR LOVE OF MAN

ROCHESTER, N. Y., August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Approximately 500 persons formed a ring last night in which two women, Elton Clossen, 35, and Sadie B. Palmer, 32, fought with bare fists for the love of a man. The man, a witness to the fray, is said to have told the contestants he would throw his affections to the winner. News of the contemplated fight brought the neighbors as spectators, and witnesses told in court today of bets being placed. Miss Palmer landed the first blow, a right to the jaw. Her opponent countered with an upper cut, but injured her hand. Both went into a clinch. Miss Clossen broke away, and when the other swung, witnesses say, she dodged and returned with a blow to the chin, for a knockout. Both women were arrested and fined $10 each in city court today.

Request For Resignation Of Volstead From Judiciary Committee Stirs Up Storm In The House; Demand Stricken From Record

WASHINGTON, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Resignation of Representative Volstead, Republican, Minnesota, as chairman, and as a member of house judiciary committee because of help alleged to have been given him in the last election by the Anti-Saloon League, was requested in a resolution presented and read in the house today by Representative "Buckham" Republican, Massachusetts.

Immediately after reading of the resolution had been concluded, Representative Mann, Republican, Illinois, moved that it be laid on the table, and the motion was adopted with a loud chorus of ayes.

After the resolution had been laid on the table, which move amounted to killing it, there was a demand, led by Representative Dyer, Republican, Missouri, to strike it from the record and this was ordered 241 to 3.

The resolution set forth that Wayne B. Wheeler, counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, had filed returns showing the expenditure by his organization in the seventh congressional district of Minnesota, represented by Mr. Volstead, that Mr. Volstead knew that Mr. Wheeler would appear before the judiciary committee either favoring specific legislation or opposing the repeal or modification of specific legislation of which his committee had jurisdiction; that Mr. Wheeler did appear before the committee and favored specific amendments to the Volstead law. The resolution then continued:

"Whereas, these facts disclose circumstances derogatory to the honor and dignity of the house of representatives and as a member of the committee on the judiciary, and if at the expiration of fourteen days from adoption of this resolution, he has not tendered his resignation, the chairmanship of said committee on the judiciary is hereby declared to have become vacant and his membership upon said committee terminated."

The proposal was shot at from all sides as it was tabled.

Dismissed On One Charge; Held On Another

When the case of E. J. McGinn, of the Allen Tailoring company, a Dayton concern, charged in an affidavit filed by William S. Harris, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, with promoting a scheme of chance, commonly known as a "suit club," came to trial in Municipal court Thursday, the defendant by Attorney Kinsworth, of Dayton and J. F. Johnley, of this city, interposed a motion to quash the affidavit on the ground that the alleged offense was not charged with clearness.

Acting Judge E. G. Miller held that the motion was well taken and by sustaining it dismissed the accused and it was then that Solicitor Johnson sprung a new complaint setting out in detail that McGinn unlawfully established, set on foot, carried on and promoted, as the owner thereof, a certain scheme of chance, commonly known as a "suit club," a scheme whereby he obtained subscriptions from Howard Gehres, Clinton Daniels and various others amounting to $1 per person a week with the understanding that when such persons contributing to the scheme had paid the sum of $40 they should be entitled to receive a certain suit or overcoat without further weekly payments.

The defendant waived the reading of the complaint and entered a plea of not guilty. By consent of both sides the case was assigned for trial on Aug. 30 and the accused was released on his own recognizance.

Attorney Kinsworth in open court stated that the matter had been thrashed out in the courts of various Ohio cities and he claimed that in every instance his clients had been exonerated. He declared that the case carried on a perfectly legitimate business and that the method of the defendant in obtaining business was legal and not a scheme of chance.

"Nanook Of The North"

A Story Of Life In The Actual Arctic

Nanook, Eskimo Chieftain, Makes His Screen Debut With Polar Beauty, Nyla, As His Leading Lady In Actual Arctic Photoplay.

Here's a new and startling novelty for that hectic tribe of people who cry and chant, "There's nothing new in the movies!" The novelty in question is "Nanook of the North," the big Pathe feature, which promises to be the screen sensation of the year.

The photoplay introduces us to two absolutely new screen personalities, Nanook, "The Bear," and Nyla, "The Smiling One." Both are making their debut in the movies in the photoplay and both show that the screen stars of warmer regions had better look to their laurels.

Nanook is as fearless a screen hero as ever performed a camera thrill, and Nyla, his leading lady, has a real "million dollar smile." No studio work is seen in the production, and all lighting effects were supplied by the sun during the day, and the Aurora Borealis during the night. Welcome to the fold!

Prof. Cook, dean of North Carolina State college, was next introduced. He too, holds a claim on the Buckeye state, having been born in the confines of Ohio. He announced his subject as "The Neurotic Theory as a Basis of Psychological Training." There are about three kinds of Neuroses defined. They are the sensory, associate and motor. Any thing learned must be acted upon by all three nervous before it becomes fixed. The reason why sleep through church is because only one set of neurones is alert.

A thing is not learned until it changes the behavior. He gave as illustration the problem 6x7 is 42. The child may say 6x7 is 46 but when he learns the correct answer his behavior will be different when that particular problem is to be solved. He says there is just as much comfort to the dollar in being a dollar as there is to an intelligent person being intelligent.

Redouble Watch On C. & O. Bridges

The Huntington Herald Dispatch says:

There were no tangible results last night of the twenty-four hour search of federal, state and city authorities for the authors of the alleged attempt to blow up the Chesapeake & Ohio trestle at Twelve Pole Monday afternoon.

Redoubled watch on all bridges and trestles in this territory has been set, while the authorities are bending every energy to solve the mystery of Monday.

Nothing has been learned thus far as to the identity of the three men who fled hereafter from the foot of the trestle when Dan Michaels, track walker, discovered the presence of a case of dynamite and gave the alarm at 2:50 Monday afternoon. The two pairs of shoes and the straw hat which were left at the brink of Twelve Pole when the men took their flight, are being used by the authorities in the search for their owners.

Discounting the "Discount" in Advance

You don't have to be a shrewd bargainer to get the bottom price on the new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord.

Instead of listing it at a high price, to enable the dealer to attract you with a so-called "long discount," we list it as low as we profitably can. You can see from the figures below that its advertised price is lower than the net price you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value.

We believe the average man would rather buy tires on this frank and open basis, and assure himself a product of recognized worth.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord is made of high-grade long-staple cotton, and it embodies the patented Goodyear method of group-ply construction.

In design, materials and manufacture it is a representative Goodyear product, built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

It has a different tread from the famous All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for substantially less.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

The RED HOUSE MYSTERY

A. A. MILNE

© 1922, A. A. Milne Company

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Who had shot and killed the neighbor? Within two minutes after his arrival at The Red House, the country estate of his wealthy bachelor brother,

MARK ABLETT, Robert's body was on the floor of the locked office. Mark was missing, and in the opinion of Inspector Birch, it was clear that Mark, who had looked forward with anticipation to the return of his brother from Australia, had shot Robert and then disappeared.

But there were mysterious circumstances. The shot was fired a few moments before

ANTHONY GILLINGHAM, gentleman adventurer and friend of

BILL BEVERLEY, one of Mark's guests, had entered the hall where he found

MATT CAYLEY, Mark's constant companion, pounding on the door and demanding admittance. The two men enter the room through a window and find the body.

Anthony and Bill have decided that Cayley knows more of the crime than he will disclose. They discover a secret passage from the bowling green to the house and, in Cayley's absence, try to find an opening to it in the library.

GO ON WITH THE STORY (Continued From Our Last Issue)

Anthony gave Bill a smile and was silent for a little, thinking. "Is there another Jim at Stanton—fairly close to the station?"

"The 'Plough and Horses'—just at the corner where the road goes up to the station—is that the one you mean?"

"That would be the one. I suppose you could do with a drink couldn't you?"

"Rather," said Bill with a grin. "Good. Then have one at the 'Plough and Horses.' Have two, if you like, and talk to the landlord, or landlady, or whoever serves you. I want to find out if anybody stayed there on Monday night."

"Robert?" said Bill eagerly. "I didn't say Robert," said Anthony, smiling. "I just want you to find out if they had a visitor who slept there on Monday night. A stranger. If so, then any particulars you can get of him, without letting the landlord know that you are interested."

"Leave it to me," broke in Bill. "I know just what you want."

"Don't assume that it was Robert—or anybody else. Let them describe the man to you. Don't influence them unconsciously by suggesting that he was short or tall, or anything of that sort. Just get them talking. If it's the landlord, you'd better stand him a drink or two."

"Right you are," said Bill confidently. "Where do I meet you again?"

"Probably at the 'George.' If you get there before me, you can order dinner for eight o'clock. Anyhow, we'll meet at eight, if not before."

"Good." He nodded to Anthony and strode back to Stanton again.

Anthony stood watching him with a little smile at his enthusiasm. Then he looked round slowly, as if in search of something. Suddenly he saw what he wanted. Twenty yards farther on a lane wandered off to the left, and there was a gate a little way up on the right-hand side of it. Anthony walked to the

Reader Takes Newer Form of Iron—Feels Years Younger

"Six weeks ago I saw a special offer in the paper telling how thousands of people grow old in looks and energy long before they are really old in years. Because of examinations by physicians have shown an enormous number of people do not have enough iron in their blood. I have been taking Nuxated Iron for two weeks; the results are simply astounding. The roses have come back in my lips and cheeks, and I can conscientiously say that I feel ten years younger. The above is a typical hypothetical case showing the results that have been achieved by a great many people since we started this 'satisfaction or money back' offer on Nuxated Iron. We will make you the same guarantee. If, after taking the two week's treatment of Nuxated Iron, you do not feel and look years younger, we will promptly refund your money. Call at once for a bottle of Nuxated Iron at Stewart's Cut Rate, Flood & Blake and Fisher & Stretch—Advertisement."

and what a queer affair it had been, and so on. Then I said carelessly that it must be very hard to remember anybody whom you had just seen once, so as to identify him afterward, and he agreed that it would be 'muddled' and then—

"Give me three guesses," interrupted Anthony. "You asked him if he remembered everybody who came to his inn?"

"That's it. Bright, wasn't it?"

"Brilliant. And what was the result?"

"The result was a woman."

"A woman?" said Anthony eagerly. "A woman," said Bill impressively.

"Of course I thought it was going to be Robert—so did you, didn't you?—but it wasn't. It was a woman. Came quite late on Monday night in a car, driving herself—went on early next morning."

"Did he describe her?"

"Yes. She was middlin', middlin' tall, middlin' age, middlin' color, and so on. Doesn't help much, does it? But still—a woman. Does that upset your theory?"

Anthony shook his head. "No, Bill, not at all," he said. "You knew all the time? At least you had guessed?"

"Wait till tomorrow. I'll tell you everything tomorrow."

"Tomorrow!" said Bill in great disappointment.

"Well, I'll tell you one thing to-night, if you'll promise not to ask any more questions. But you probably know it already."

"What is it?"

"That Mark Ablett did not kill his brother."

"And Cayley did?"

"That's another question, Bill. However, the answer is that Cayley didn't either."

"Then who on earth—"

"Have some more beer," said Anthony with a smile. And Bill had to be content with that.

They were early to bed that evening, for both of them were tired. Bill slept soundly and, definitely, but Anthony lay awake, wondering. What was happening at the Red House now? Perhaps he would hear in the morning; perhaps he would get a letter. He went over the whole story again from the beginning—was there any possibility of a mistake? What would the police do? Would they ever find out? Ought he to have told them? Well, let them find out it was their job. Surely he couldn't have made a mistake this time. No good wondering now; he would know definitely in the morning.

In the morning there was a letter for him.

CHAPTER XX

MY Dear Mr. Gillingham,

I gather from your letter that you have made certain discoveries which you may feel it your duty to communicate to the police, and that in this case my part in a charge of murder would inevitably follow. Why, in these circumstances, you should give me such ample warning of your intentions I do not understand, unless it is that you are not wholly out of sympathy with me.

"But whether or not you sympathize, at any rate you will want to know—and I want you to know—the exact manner in which Ablett met his death and the reasons which under that death necessary. If the police have to be told anything, I would rather that they too know the whole story. There, and even you, may call it murder, but by that time I shall be out of the way. Let them call it what they like."

IN THE MORNING THERE WAS A LETTER FOR HIM.

"I must begin by taking you back to a summer day fifteen years ago, when I was a boy of thirteen and Mark a young man of twenty-five. His whole life was made-better, and just now he was pretending to be a philanthropist."

"He sat in our little drawing-room, flicking his gloves against the back of his hand, and my mother, good-looking man he was, and Philip, and I, hastily washed and crammed into coats, stood in front of him, nudging each other and kicking the backs of our heels and cursing him in our hearts for having interrupted our game."

"He had decided to adopt one of us, kind Cousin Mark. Heaven knows why he chose me. Philip was eleven; two years longer to wait. Perhaps that was why."

"Well, Mark educated me. I went to a public school and to Cambridge, and I became his secretary. Well, much more than his secretary as your friend Beverley perhaps has told you. Mark could never let me alone. There must always be somebody to listen to him. I think in his heart he hoped I should be his heir. He told me one day that he had made me his literary executor—poor devil, and he used to write me the absurd long letters when I was away from him, letters which I read once and then tore up. The futility of the man!"

"It was three years ago that Philip got into trouble. He had been hurried through a cheap grammar school and into a London office, and discovered there that there was not much fun to be got in this world on two pounds a week. I had a frantic letter from him one day, saying that he must have a hundred at once, or he would be ruined, and I went to Mark for the money."

"Only to borrow it, you understand; he gave me a good salary, and I could have paid it back in three months. But no. He saw nothing for himself in it, I suppose; no applause, no admiration. Philip's gratitude would be to me, not to him."

"I begged, I threatened, we argued; and while we were arguing, Philip was arrested. It killed my mother—he was always her favorite—but Mark, as usual, got his satisfaction out of it. He preened himself on his judgment of character in having chosen me and not Philip twelve years before!"

"Later on I apologized to Mark for the reckless things I had said to him, and he placed the part of a magnanimous gentleman with his accustomed skill, but, though outwardly we were as before to each other, from that day forward, though his vanity would never let him see it, I was his bitterest enemy."

"If that had been all, I wonder if I should have killed him? To live on terms of intimate friendship with a man whom you hate is dangerous work for your friend. Because of his belief in me as his admiring and grateful protégé and his belief in himself as my benefactor, he was now utterly in my power. I could take my time and choose my opportunity. Perhaps I should not have killed him, but I had sworn to have my revenge—and there he was, poor vain fool, at my mercy. I was in no hurry."

"Two years later I had to reconsider my position, for my revenge was being taken out of my hands. Mark began to drink. Could I have stopped him? I don't think so, but to my immense surprise I found myself trying to. Instinct, perhaps, getting the better of reason; or did I reason it out and tell myself that, if he drank himself to death, I should lose my revenge? Upon my word, I cannot tell you; but, for whatever motive, I did genuinely want to stop it. Drinking is such a beastly thing anyhow."

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—How many pounds of steam does it take to make one-half pint of water? And what is the population of Wakefield, Ohio?

X. Y. Z.
You will have to get an engineer to figure out the "steam" question for you. The difference in volume between water and steam at atmospheric pressure is 1669 to 1; that is, a given quantity of water expanded into steam will occupy 1669 times the space it did before. This is nearly one cubic foot, and one cubic foot of steam at atmospheric pressure weighs .038 pounds. The population of Wakefield is 1671.

Dear Dolly—I went with a man here in Portsmouth for over a year. He seemed to care for me, although he was not of the same nationality. He is nice looking and well fixed financially. Dolly, he is now going with another fair beauty. Would you try to get him back or let her have him?

PICKERY.
Let her have him. If you did get him, it would only be a question of time until you would lose him.

Dear Dolly—I am coming to you for advice. I am a married woman of 20, have been married 4 years and have one baby going on 3 years. Dolly, my husband won't go to housekeeping. I have had to stay all this time in a big mess with in-laws whom I despise. There are as hateful to me as can be and when I tell my husband about it he gets mad at me and I have quit ever telling him anything about it. He does all the housework and gets no thanks for it. I would go to housekeeping, but he won't, so I have to give up the thought of ever having any home of my own, and I am going somewhere to work if I can get anyone to keep my baby. I was told there was a nursery in Cincinnati where they would keep children for the day for mothers who had to work. Please tell me if there is such a place. I would rather work in Portsmouth if I thought I could get my baby cared for while I work. I don't know whether I could stand it till she gets old enough for school or not. I live a miserable life here. His father talks about my people, which makes my blood boil, and I don't say anything, simply to keep down a fuss. I can't have a thing of my own, not even a box of powder, so I think I have stayed long enough, don't you? So please print this and tell me what you think is best.

WORRIED READER.
There is a day nursery in Cincinnati and also in Columbus. Since you are not helping matters by keeping still and taking all their "back talk," why don't you tell them what you think of them? They probably think you are easy since they delight in abusing you. The next time they

Dear Dolly—I want your advice. I meet a pretty girl every day on the street every day and she smiles so sweetly, but if we take her too seriously, she will flare up like a porcupine. She is not a flirt, and we would like to gain her affection. Please tell us how to do it.

BEAUTY LOVERS.
Don't pay any attention to her for awhile and see how that works. In difference seems to be the best cure for girls who think that they can vamp the world and every man in it.

Dear Dolly—I want to answer the woman who had a letter in your column recently signed "Jilted." If she would only quit quarreling with her husband he might be a better man. If I had a husband who loved another woman, I would let her have him. I would not waste my time with him. I feel sorry for this woman because I know he ran after her for two years before she would even speak to him. The person who started all this talk does not think to much herself and I do not think anyone believes what she says. Dolly, if some of this couples' tight-lipped neighbors would mind their own business and sweep in front of their own doors before talking about their neighbors, we would not read about so many scandals.

ONE WHO KNOWS.
You may know what you are talking about, but the woman who signed herself "Jilted" did not have a husband. Some other woman beat her to him, hence the letter.

ANXIOUS—If you are giving a surprise party, don't send out invitations. Invite your guests over the phone. Intelligent boys and girls don't play kissing games in this day and age. If the weather is warm, get out on the lawn and play ring games.

New Boston Fire Chief Suspended

New Boston council in special session Wednesday night took formal action on the charges brought by Mayor William E. Newberry earlier in the week against Fire Chief Raymond Haslip, the four members, Messrs. Payton, Wolfe, Davis and Bailey, present voting in favor of a motion to suspend the fire fighter pending final hearing on the complaint which alleges indifference and gross neglect of duty.

The matter is scheduled to come to a hearing before the entire council, sitting as a court, at its next regular meeting early in September and in the meantime Robert Noble will fill the suspended chief's place by virtue of his appointment by Mayor Newberry Thursday morning when he was sworn in as his duties.

This is the second effort to oust Haslip as head of the fire department, on the other occasion, several months ago, the charges were dismissed for lack of convincing evidence and the chief retained his place, however, the mayor insists that he will be able to submit evidence this time to fully substantiate the charges and sufficiently strong to warrant the dismissal of the official.

Haslip has flatly denied the charges and has announced his intention of defending himself at the hearing. He expresses confidence that he will be exonerated and restored to his position.

Pyorrhea is caused by a germ and it is so powerful and persistent a germ that both dentists and doctors have for years been baffled in their attempts to find a remedy that would destroy both the germs and their poisonous toxins.

Pyorrhea or Rigg's Disease means loose teeth, sore, soft and oftentimes bleeding gums and every sufferer will be glad to know that at last a Rochester, N. Y., dentist has found a cure. This preparation which is called MO-AVA DENTAL CREAM can now be obtained at all first class drug stores, and so speedily does it destroy the germs, tighten up the loose teeth and

It is a carefully balanced combination of high grade antiseptics and germicides, powerful enough to combat and destroy the germs of Pyorrhea yet pleasant and easy to use. Anyone can make their teeth and gums strong and healthy right at home. It is very concentrated and a regular tube will last a long time. Crack Of Snipers' Rifles Heard As Collins' Body Arrives

DUBLIN, August 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Draped in the beloved tri-colors of Ireland, the coffin containing the body of Michael Collins, slain chief of Ireland's new free state government was landed here today from the steamer Classic and borne through the streets amid an impressive tribute from the assembled multitude.

The body was taken on a gun carriage preceded by a band of pipers to St. Vincent's Hospital. Prayers were said as the procession passed in silence, broken only by the distant crack of snipers' rifles in various parts of the grief-stricken city. The cortege was flanked by a line of Dublin guards marching in slow time with the muzzles of their revolvers protruding from the holsters.

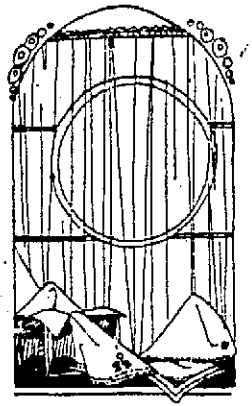

Behind came armored cars bristling with rifles held at all angles, comprising an incongruous ending to the mournful procession.

Tomorrow the remains will be taken to the Pro-Cathedral where a high requiem mass will be held preceding funeral at the Glasnevin cemetery on Monday.

U. C. T. Barbecue To Be Big Affair

When Knights of the Grip get together Saturday for the United Commercial Travelers' big barbecue to be held at the Lakeside fair grounds there will be enough of the famed yams and jokes to make a sea captain take a back seat. But the best part of the outing is that they will have something more substantial than yams as they have sold themselves one of the biggest good times. If all preparations are carried out, that has been enjoyed on any outing so far this season. There will be enough features that if some of the U. C. T.'s do not care to do one thing then there are many other features in which to delight.

Enough food will be cooked for the gathering to cause a local food shortage as five hundred pounds of beef cooked in fireless cookers while on the way to this city from Chicago, and other incidentals such as a wagon load of corn on the cob are on the menu. Securing the heaves for the barbecue from Armour and Company of Chicago and having them ready to serve will save considerable trouble for the committee the day of the outing.

The sub-committee in charge of stunts, Allen Shattery and Wayne Watkins, has prepared enough contests in their stunt program to allow every member to go home with a tin medal. There will be a sack race, three-legged race, egg race, fat man's race, dashes, tug-of-war and every other kind of race. For those not wishing to enter the races or watch them, there will be dancing on a well-prepared floor and music will be furnished by the band for the dancers.

Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock sharp, all members having machines are requested to be at the U. C. T. hall, Fourth and Washington streets as there will be a big feature parade over the main streets before going out the Trail to the fair grounds. There will be plenty of machines so that members and families will have free transportation.

The local Council has a membership of close to three hundred members, and in addition to every member their families and friends there will be present U. C. T.'s from Winchester, Marysville, Ashland, Huntington, Ironton and Chillicothe.

CHILICOTHE ROTARIANS SAY OUTING HERE SETS NEW MARK IN ROTARIANISM

The Chillicothe News-Advertiser Wednesday said:

Enthusiastic fails to express the feeling of the Chillicothe Rotarians and their families, who attended the Ohio river journey on Tuesday as the guests of the Portsmouth Rotary club. Some go as far as to insist that it was the meeting par excellence of Southern Ohio Rotarians, and all are simply bubbling over with gratitude to the River City Rotaries for a wonderful day.

Everything possible that Rotary club could do to make its guests comfortable was attended to. Not even the slightest detail was overlooked, and visiting members of the lunch clubs, all of whom have had some experience in extending the glad hand, simply were astounded at the thoroughness with which Portsmouth Rotarians did things.

Arriving at the U. R. church in the morning, the Chillicotheans found a long receiving line of men and women to greet them. Cars were parked and tinned, women and children were made comfortable and in every way the detail was perfect. A fine lunch was served to all, and it is estimated that nearly 500 visitors accepted the Portsmouth hospitality.

The parade to the wharf was viewed by thousands of Portsmouth residents, and to their delight the visitors found the steamer a large magnificent boat, capable of carrying for 2500 people. A calliope added to the enjoyment of the tour home on the river, and a fine orchestra supplied the music for hundreds who tripped the light fantastic, or as John Poland says, "indulged in the stinky step."

Returning to Portsmouth, a caterteria lunch of most delicious portions was served at the U. R. church and the visitors were astounded at the dispatch displayed by the ladies in charge. No speeches were indulged in, but all the clubs participated in singing songs, and brought a wonderful day to a close about 8 o'clock.

About 100 persons from Chillicothe attended, and there were large delegations from Greenfield, Circleville, Washington, C. H., Ironton, Ashland, Ky., and Huntington, W. Va. It was a real letter day to Southern Ohio Rotarians, and so successful that Portsmouth has promised another next year.

Boy Drowns

ASHLAND, Ky., Aug. 24—Slipping from a raft of logs on which he and a number of companions had been playing, Frederick Adkins, nine-year-old son of Clem Adkins, Normal, was drowned in the Ohio river at 3 p. m. yesterday. His body was recovered after three hours of searching.

Hobart Bosworth Productions Inc., presents

HOBART BOSWORTH IN BLIND HEARTS

He despised his wife—He hated his daughter—Hated for his "Bunker" buried deep in his soul—Yet happiness was to be his, greater happiness than he had ever expected could come to him.

Hobart Bosworth Supported by Madge Bellamy in "Blind Hearts" Is The Big Attraction At The Eastland Theatre Tonight—A Thrilling Story Of The Yukon Country During The Gold Rush Days

In "Blind Hearts," which comes to the Eastland Theatre soon, Hobart Bosworth plays the role of Lars Larson, wealthy mine owner, who for twenty years has suspected the parentage of his daughter, Julia, as she carries a birthmark peculiar to his prospecting partner of the Alaska gold-rush days and business associate, John Thomas. Paul Thomas, the latter's son, loves Julia. Larson forbids their marriage. Paul visits Larson on the latter's yacht to discuss the matter and attacks the older man. Through a suggestion of logical circumstances the yacht is burned at the dock and the body of a man thought to be Larson was discovered in the ruins. Paul is convicted of the crime. In reality, Larson has fled believing himself the murderer of his mine superintendent. Weeks later, through a stray newspaper, he finds that another man is to die for having killed him. Larson returns to prevent the injustice. The clearing of the innocent Paul Thomas, the discovery of the real culprit and the disclosure of Julia Larson's true parentage result in a tremendously enthralling and unexpected climax.

Locked Steering Wheel Caused Whitaker Accident At Wheeling

The Wheeling, W. Va. Intelligencer Wednesday said:
"Six occupants in an automobile owned by A. C. Whitaker of Pleasant Valley, narrowly escaped serious injuries yesterday afternoon when the machine went over a high embankment two miles north on Peter's Run near Elm Grove.
"Fortunately the occupants escaped with only painful bruises and were taken care of at the home of John Sterling nearby until another automobile could be summoned to remove them to their homes.
"Mrs. A. C. Whitaker was driving at the time of the accident.
"The party was returning from a trip out Peter's Run. In making a slight curve the steering wheel locked and the machine dashed over a twelve-foot embankment.
"None of the occupants were thrown from the machine and later crawled from the wreck none the worse from their experience.
"Occupants of the car aside from the driver were Mrs. L. P. Haldeman and daughters, Helen and Elmore of Portsmouth, O., and Mrs. Nelson Whitaker and son Nelson, Jr., of Wheeling."

SUNDAY-CLOSING ORDER IN PIQUA RESCINDED BY MAYOR

PIQUA, O., Aug. 24—Sunday blue laws in Piqua are no more. This was decided today by Mayor A. W. Dewese, who announced that the verdict of a jury which freed Harry W. Kress on a charge of operating a motion picture show on Sunday, would be taken as an expression of public sentiment on Sunday closing. Movie houses will be open next Sunday and business will be resumed as before the enforcement of the Sunday closing law which has resulted in the closing of practically all business over two week ends.

In a statement the mayor declared today that the sentiment of a jury which had a banker as for-man and a storekeeper as its humblest member was qualified to render a verdict in accord with public opinion and that the Sunday closing regulations now were removed. With one case still pending against Kress and three against Marion Hertling, another motion picture house operator, ministers say they are not going to give up their fight to invoke the "Blue Laws." An action for $5,700 damages was brought by Kress today as a result of his acquittal of a criminal charge of operating moving picture shows on Sunday, against Luther S. Patterson, farmer, who filed the petition in common pleas court against him. Kress asks for $5,000 exemplary and punitive damages because Patterson "unlawfully and maliciously charged him and maliciously and falsely prosecuted him for unlawfully giving a theatrical performance on Sunday," declaring he has suffered great humiliation and undergone much mental torture as a result of Patterson's action. The $500 is to reimburse him for attorney's fees in the case he has filed against Patterson. Patterson, who said he had only seen three moving picture performances in his life also said he filed affidavits against Kress at the instigation of the Law and Order League.

Cyrus Faces Two Charges

James Cyrus, who was captured by Vanceburg authorities and brought here by Sheriff E. E. Rickey was turned over to Deputy Tom McAllister of Circleville, and Arthur Crage, of Chillicothe, who returned the prisoner to Chillicothe Wednesday to answer to two separate charges, one for alleged assaulting his wife and the other for resisting an officer.

John Wolford and M. D. Vaughn, Ross county farmers, who accompanied the officers here, identified five sets of harness as their property and which had been stolen. The harness was found in possession of Cyrus, it is claimed, at the time of his capture, and he will probably be required to also meet a couple of complaints for larceny.

Two boys called at the sheriff's office last night and told the officers of having lost John boots, several of which were found, believed to have been stolen by Cyrus and the boys will go to Vanceburg in an effort to recover their crafts.

Malone Fined $1,000

A penalty of $1,000 and costs was imposed on Harry Malone by Squire Caudill of Valley township following the defendant's plea of guilty to a charge of manufacturing intoxicating liquor when arraigned before the magistrate at the county jail office last night.

His brother, Hubert Malone, was passed a fine of $200 and costs under his admission of guilt to a similar charge. Harry drew the larger fine because it was his second offense.

The brothers were apprehended Wednesday afternoon when county officers caught them in the act of operating a 60-gallon capacity still of the oil drum type along the Scioto river, near the Lucasville bridge.

The still and a quantity of liquor were seized and brought to the sheriff's office, while a considerable amount of mash was destroyed by the officers.

Hubert Malone disclaimed having any interest in the outfit and explained his presence there by saying that he went there to demonstrate an oil burner for which he is agent, in hope of selling one to his brother.

Harry claimed that he had just set up the still and had not yet run off any liquor, and gave as an excuse for being in the business that times were dull and he needed the money it would produce.

Having no funds to pay up, the defendants were committed to jail.

The umpire was so rotten that even the home fans were forced to hold their nostrils and left the park in disgust over the broad yellow streak displayed by their own athletes, who insisted on winning by such unfair tactics.

The Champs carried little about the result of the contest as the proceeds of the game were to go to Henry Sanderson, Otway boy, who snuffed a bone in his right arm while pitching for Rarden recently, but the Rarden players only stood up for their rights and fair treatment.

BAD STOMACHS CAUSE PIMPLES

Boils, Pimples, Blisters On Skin Often Caused By Constipation Or Indigestion

When the stomach is in such a bad condition that the food acids and ferments are not properly digested, and clogged with foul matter, the blood must go into the skin to find their way out of the system through the skin as well as through the natural channels. So pimples and boils are the result of a bad stomach and lack of bowel action.

All this can be avoided and if present can be made to pass away and the skin cleared up and made healthy by the use of New-Worth. The good effects will be noticed even in very serious cases before the first bottle is taken. New-Worth cleanses the system generally. Mrs. Daley of Harrisonville, Md., had a bad case of indigestion and bowel trouble and blood got in a very bad condition, but she soon eradicated the trouble with a few bottles of New-Worth. Any druggist has it and sells it. It will always find its way to the fisher & Streich drug store in this city, and every druggist is authorized to give the New-Worth bottle. It is not a satisfactory result. - Advertisement.

Labor Protests Against Smith Ruling Of Wine-Beer Proposal Off Official Ballot

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 24.—The executive board of the Ohio Federation of Labor today took exception to Secretary of State Smith's decision not to place on the November ballot the recently initiated light wine and beer amendment to the Ohio constitution.

"The Supreme Court has held that courts cannot consider and will not determine in advance of an election whether a proposed amendment to the constitution of the state is in conflict with the constitution of the United States," says a resolution adopted by the board.

"The people of Ohio should have the opportunity to say the stamp of their approval or disapproval upon existing provisions of the Ohio constitution and laws through the initiative and referendum, and no authority exists in the constitution of Ohio empowering any state official or court to deny the right of the initiative or referendum, except when such petitions are insufficient or perjured with fraud."

The federation is not concerned with the beer or wine questions, its officers said, but merely mean to protect the advance of non-judicial decisions on the constitutionality of questions that may be initiated.

Red Leg Game

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The New York Yankees held to five hits in two games by Cleveland pitchers, have relinquished the American League lead to the St. Louis Browns in the second game of the series with Cleveland. Cleveland held the Yankees to three hits and won 4 to 1, while the Browns walloped out a 6 to 3 victory over the Red Sox at Boston.

Everett Scott, the Yankees' shortstop, went through the game against Cleveland without making an assist. He was credited with one putout.

In the National, while New York was idle in Cincinnati because of rain, the Cardinals took a 6 to 3 game from the Braves.

The Pirates continued their winning streak defeating the Phillies 11 to 3 and Sherrod Smith of Brooklyn shut out the Cubs six to 0.

Cleveland's Tigers suffered their first defeat of the week, falling behind the Athletics 6 to 2 and Washington trounced the White Sox 11 to 3.

A BRAVE KING MAY PASS

KING ALFONSO of Spain finds himself in a grave situation. Many months ago when the Spanish troops met disaster in Morocco inspired rumor charged the throne with overriding military and ministerial authority and directing the event which ended so disastrously.

The Spanish people, out to the quick by the fragile thread of empire which is all that is left of their past grandeur in colonizing adventure, simmered over the humiliation and at last an investigation was started.

The investigation dragged along until it has become apparent that no definite result will be reached. Simply because the man who ordered the mad advance on Mount Ararat is none other than King Alfonso, and with the principal defendant above the jurisdiction of the court, lesser officials lack a vigorous prosecution.

There is another phase of it worth noting. Alfonso is not the first monarch to make such a mistake. He will be the first one, probably in all history, for whose mistake a goat or goats have not been offered up in public sacrifice. Alfonso is not that sort of man. Everything in his career makes it certain that it is Alfonso who is refusing to permit false witness to be borne against another for his protection. What it may mean to Alfonso and his dynasty is conjectural. He has been a very popular monarch, and a wise one; none other could weather the crisis Spain has endured in the past decade and more; ever since he came to the throne Alfonso's personality has been the sole link between the Spain of the past and the Spain of the future.

But Spain today is governmentally decayed and many lives were lost when the king gave the command. A tired people, envious of a world of rising powers and fortunes, may ask themselves whether the national destiny may be recovered, and if so, by what change?

That question and its answer is the daily terror of the monarchists of Spain, as it has been many times before of other groups of monarchists in other lands.

The people no longer care to die fruitlessly.

ENGLISH WORLD LANGUAGE

A bright story, lightly written, comes from Paris, where publicists and politicians are disturbed over the chances of French as the world language of the future. The discussion started over Esperanto, a proposed world language invented by a Russian scholar some 35 years ago. Some nervous persons conceived that Esperanto was becoming the language of the Bolsheviks and other "internationalists." A crusade against the arbitrary speech naturally resulted in a new lease of life for Esperanto in France. Esperanto clubs are springing up everywhere, while the controversy rages. At its height a professor of the Sorbonne has declared that Frenchmen should encourage Esperanto in order that it may sidetrack English in its mad rush to become the universal tongue of diplomacy.

There is a serious undercurrent to it all. The French are inordinately proud of their language. They have been taught through generations to think of English as barbaric and uncivil. Through the pages of French literature the Englishman swaggers his uncouth way with an exaggeration as great as that with which his be-moaned representative has trod absent-mindedly on the American stage. France gloried in the fact that her language long remained the tongue of the British court. It is different today. The French have seen English admitted to equality and co-partnership with the French in recent world conferences. They have seen the yellow races accept English as their international tongue. It is a heavy blow to a proud people.

Will there ever be a world language in the sense of "one spoken generally by men everywhere"? Not for a few thousands of years at least. But every day brings nearer the time that will make necessary the recognition of a universal speech that will be accepted, by matter of course, as the medium of communication wherever men of differing tongues meet and congregate. What will that tongue be? We may safely assume that it will not be Esperanto or any other made-to-order code. We are too busy in this bustling world to take on new tongues. The world language will assert itself by virtue of dominance, and English has a great lead today.

Authorities estimate that English is spoken now by 150,000,000 people, probably many more. German, before the war, claimed 120,000,000, Russian 90,000,000, French 60,000,000. Next in order are Spanish, Italian and Portuguese. It is safe to say that as many people speak English as speak French, Spanish, Italian and Portuguese combined.

English owes its dominance to the fact that the English-speaking peoples have been the great colonizers. English will gain in dominance because today the English-speaking peoples are the great travelers; and they carry their speech with them. They will continue, too, to be colonizers; a gigantic project is now on foot to develop white, English-speaking Australia. As many English-speaking persons may one day live there as now live in the United States and Canada combined. German, second most powerful language, will not expand for many years to come.

Thinking Frenchmen recognize these facts, and begin, reluctantly to admit them. "Well," they say, "English may in time become the international language of business, but we must save French as the language of good society." That, too, is a forlorn hope. The language of international business is bound to be the language of international society, good, bad and indifferent.

ABSALOM FOLLOWS HUSHAI'S ADVICE

ABSALOM with Ahithophel, his counsellor and the men of Israel came to Jerusalem. Hushai, David's friend was there. Absalom asked Ahithophel to advise him. Ahithophel asked him to let him choose twelve thousand men and pursue David that night and smite him. David then asked Hushai to advise him. Hushai told him to wait until he had a great army, thinking that David would then have time to escape. The Lord made Absalom think that Hushai's advice was the best. Hushai sent messengers to David. Then David and all the people with him passed over Jordan that night.

The Atlantic Ocean Day By Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

ON THE ATLANTIC, August 24—The ship has turned north into colder weather. It is the only conveyance I've been in for some time where you could turn without waiting for the signal of a traffic cop.

This morning the group at our table by invitation went to call on Captain Rostron in his cabin. There was in our party beside my wife and myself Capt. Aiken, the Scotchman; Dr. Louise Pearce, of the Rockefeller Institute, who has traveled almost as much as Isaac Marcovson, and Mrs. O'Shaughnessy Van Horn.

Captain Rostron's cabin is a combination office and living quarters done in mahogany and luxuriously outfitted. The talk somehow turned to the comparative telephone rates of England and America and that was about all we discussed. I wanted him to tell us more than anything else what the chances were to land safely. I had a dream last night and the old girl is still on the job.

My wife ran across a card on the wall which she endeavored to laugh off. Women at times have an odd sense of humor. It read: "Master Port Side B. Deck. Your Life Boat No. 12." I sneaked up to look at No. 12. The darn thing is nothing but an overgrown skiff.

On the sun deck in the afternoon the crew gave a boxing contest. Kid Isen knocked Stoker Connelly through the ropes. More luck of the Irish. Kid Isen had a foaming mug of beer tattooed on his back.

There was also a Blind Tiddbit. Four young deck boys put sacks over their heads and waded into the middle of the ring punching wildly. It was amusing and no one was hurt. I attended the bouts with Mrs. Russell Sullivan, of Indianapolis, who with her husband is touring the continent. We happen to be mutual friends and admirers of Meredith Nicholson.

The deck loungers have sighted a school of porpoise and there are many flying fish, they say, although I've not seen them. As night comes on I grow home-sick for my dog. The only dog aboard is a little Mexican hairless one weighing three and a half pounds. I am worried some day a deck swabber will mistake him for a cockroach.

New York is filled with talk about how people are leaving for Europe to indulge in wild speers on the Atlantic. As a matter of fact, when there is too much drinking the captain closes the bar. I've seen only one man under the influence of liquor. He was not offensive, just amusing. Nearly all have table wines with their dinners and that is about all there is to it.

It seems to me that an old couple from a small town in Kansas are having more fun out of this trip than the rest of the passengers. They are together constantly hand in hand. He told me that they had struck oil on his place and that they had never been on a trip together before. The largest city he has ever visited was Topeka. They are home-spirited folk and very natural. She calls him "Dad" and he calls her "Ma." Everybody on the boat is making an extra effort to make them feel at home, save a little group of motion picture smart alecs who merely gaze at them with haughty and amused tolerance. Will Hays has quite a job on his hands, I am convinced.

The stewardess on our deck is a motherly, silver-haired lady who has been crossing the ocean for 34 years. Part of the time she was on the Pacific. She has raised a family of seven boys—all seamen. Her husband is a London cabbie, having grown too old for the sea. She says she cannot sleep more than an hour or so a night on land.

Sally In Our Alley

(By Hermon Bracy)
Of all the girls that are so smart, There's few as smart as Sally. For it is with consummate art She howls 'em down the alley! She has the grace— she has the form (The form, I mean for bowling) The very ten-pins fall for her When Sally starts to rolling!

Each frame she plays, within my frame She sets the blood to spinning. What care I if we lose the game? Her ways are always winning. Upon the scorer's tally, She makes a perfect score with me When bowling down our alley.

And whether Sally hits the pins Or misses them completely, There's one thing I am certain of, She howls me over neatly: She played her game well from the start!

A clever girl is Sally. She makes a ten-strike on my heart When bowling in our alley.

Not Enough Boy!

"Tommy, this is the last place of mine you are going to have," said a mother to her little son during the Christmas season.

"Put me to bed, but please don't bend me."

There was a little boy like you," his mother, "who ate so much mince pie that he finally burst. Yes, he burst from too much mince pie."

"No," said Tommy, "there's no such thing as too much mince pie."

"Then," said his mother, "why did he burst?"

"There wasn't enough boy," Tommy answered.

New York Proverbs

A word to the wise is sufficient. Fine feathers make fine birds. Don't cry before you are hoit. Even a worm will turn. A hold in the hand is worth two in the bush. A boiled child dreads the fire. Live to join and loise to live. The only hold catches the worm. Wayside Tales.

Handle With Care

Little Oscar had eaten of the holiday dinner not wisely but too well and had ended a day of feasting by curling up in a corner preparatory to sleep. Someone discovered him and picked him up to carry him off to bed. Oscar opened one eye and muttered:

"Put me to bed, but please don't bend me."

The Qualified Committee
At a Legion post meeting in New Jersey, one comrade was reported to be sick and a motion was carried that a committee of three "be appointed to visit Comrade Jones, sympathize with him and try to cheer him up."

"Then it was reported that another comrade had been married since the last meeting and the commander suggested that the post take suitable action."

"Send the same committee to see him," suggested a voice.
